

Dear Mr. President Putin,

peaceful coexistence of nations and world peace are possible only in accordance with the elementary law of nature: treat others as you would like to be treated yourself. The invincible Unified Field of all the laws of nature at the origin of creation knows neither double moral standards nor exceptionalism, but only unity. We experience this unity in Transcendental Meditation (TM). With every action and behavior, we express our desires how we ourselves would like to be treated. Natural Law fulfills these desires according to the principle Actio = Reactio with absolute precision in this or a future incarnation.

It is obvious that NATO and especially the USA have massively broken this natural law several times.

1. the U.S. has expanded NATO eastward even though it had promised the Russians not to do so. In the process, the U.S. government seems to be doing everything it can to set the stage for a first strike.

The installation of missile sites in neighboring countries pose a direct threat to Russia that could lead to a preemptive strike.

Apparently, the U.S. government is unable to put itself in the shoes of its adversary, because the U.S. would be just as unwilling to accept Russian missile sites in Cuba, Mexico or Canada.

2. the Minsk ceasefire agreement was completely ignored by the Ukrainian government. Neither the U.S. nor the Western participants in the "Normandy format" have held Ukraine accountable for this, but have even encouraged it in its behavior. Moreover, the Ukrainian government has been waging a war of aggression against its eastern provinces since 2014, in violation of international law.

3. the operation of U.S.-funded biological weapons laboratories in Ukraine are an absolute no-go.

When agreements and treaties are broken despite multiple warnings, violence is inevitable. NATO and Ukraine are now reaping the very fruits they have sown.

The statements of Ukrainian President Zelenskyy about his intentions to join NATO and the EU and to arm Ukraine with nuclear weapons have added fuel to the fire.

But your public regrets about the collapse of the Soviet Union, under whose regime the smaller Warsaw Pact states suffered greatly, including the brutal suppression of uprisings in East Germany, Hungary and Czechoslovakia, were not conducive to reconciliation. In doing so, they suggest an intention to restore the Soviet Union. But this is exactly what led these countries to be driven into the arms of NATO out of fear. Now, apparently, Sweden and Finland also intend to join NATO. Within traditional military thinking, this may be as consistent as the annexation of Crimea and Russia's attack on Ukraine.

Here, the whole absurdity of this outdated military paradigm becomes apparent, because it is precisely by joining NATO that these countries become a threat to Russia and thus a preventive target for attack. Exactly what is supposed to be achieved - namely more security - is thwarted by fear on both sides and the resulting membership and NATO armament. But Russia has also succumbed to the illusion that high-tech weapons will bring more security. This may be the case temporarily through deterrence until NATO responds with appropriate countermeasures and the arms spiral enters a new round.

The war with Ukraine could have been prevented if Russia was not as entrenched as NATO in materialistic thinking and has so far been incapable of using consciousness technologies for its own defense, despite the fact that you and NATO governments have been extensively briefed on Invincible Defense Technology (IDT) on several occasions.

From Albert Einstein we know:

You can never solve problems by the mindset that created them.

The purest form of insanity is to keep everything the same while hoping that something will change.

Where the solution to the problem lies is shown by the preamble to the UNESCO Constitution:

Since wars originate in the minds of men, peace must also be rooted in the minds of men.

Since time immemorial, people have violated natural laws. Crimes and wars are inevitable when life is not lived in accordance to the laws of nature and the mechanisms by which the violations of natural laws by many individuals build up into a collective state of tension are not understood. These tensions are relieved in wars, but at the same time new collective stress is created. The politicians who start the wars are only the mirror of the collective consciousness of the masses.

The individual citizen does not want war, of course, but through unreasonable, aggressive and corrupt behavior in everyday life - against himself and others - he himself contributes to it.

Violation of natural laws inevitably leads to fear of nature's reaction, which is then projected onto a supposed enemy. A vicious circle is set in motion, which can only be resolved by the individual finding peace within himself and learning to behave spontaneously in the right way and in accordance with natural law. Without peace in the individual consciousness, there can be no peace between nations.

Transcendental Meditation creates peace in individual consciousness and increasingly brings behavior into harmony with Natural Law. When enough people practice Transcendental Meditation, tensions in the collective consciousness are reduced. To achieve a worldwide Maharishi Effect, large permanent groups of advanced participants in the TM program in the 5-digit range are needed to practice their meditation program together. This will make any nation invincible, and wars impossible.

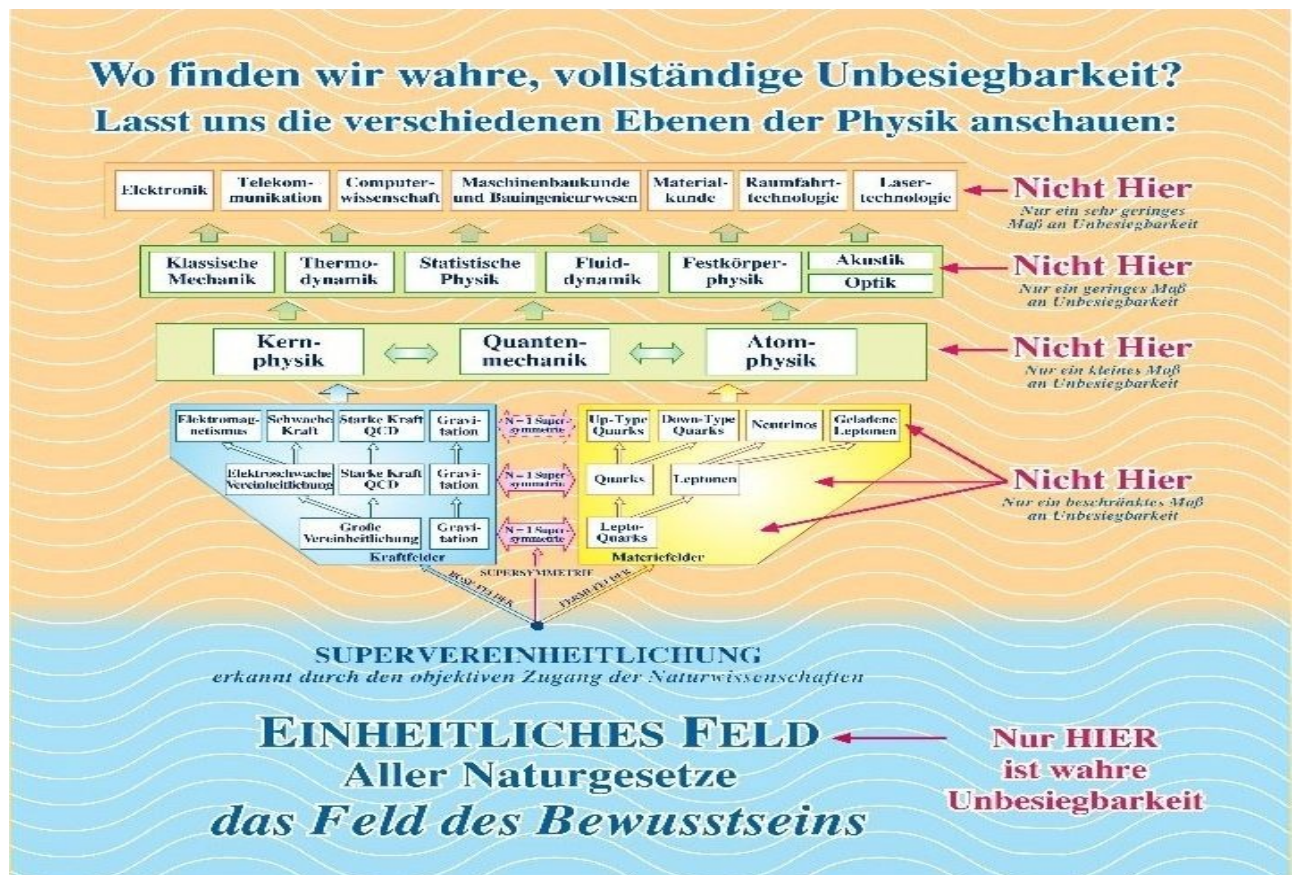

Unfortunately, the West has not yet succeeded in establishing sufficiently large permanent coherence-generating groups. For you, as an authoritarian ruling statesman, this would certainly be much easier than for the Western democracies.

Have at least 5,000 army personnel trained in Transcendental Meditation and advanced techniques and practice the IDT program in large groups. Then Russia will become invincible, not because of deterrence by high-tech weapons, but because the hostility and fear of NATO countries will dissolve. The war would end quickly, and peace in Europe would be permanently secured. Russia would thus make a unique contribution to world peace. The cost would be limited to a tiny fraction of your defense budget, and military spending could be drastically reduced in the medium term. With permanent groups in the 5-digit range, even world peace would be permanently secured.

That the decades-long bloody civil war in Mozambique was overcome with the help of coherence groups of Yogic Airmen is explicitly confirmed and acknowledged by the government of Joaquim Chissano.

The same technology, according to Lt. Gen. José Villamil, a former Vice Minister of Defense of Ecuador, years later led to the end of the war between Ecuador and Peru.

Yours sincerely
